Time Out Madrid (Time Out Guides)

Synopsis

Famed for its wild nights and lazy days, Madrid provides a whole lot more, whether your interests lie in spectacular opera productions or chirpy folkloric zarzuela; in cutting-edge cuisine or ancient, tiled tabernas; in designer-shoe shopping or mooching around flea markets. Written by resident journalists, Time Out Madrid also covers the artistic jewels housed in the Prado, Thyssen, and Reina Sofia, as well as the etiquette of watching a bullfight or joining in with a flamenco performance, as well as where to stay and how to escape the city heat. Suggested trips out of town are also recommended. In the frame; the intriguing stories behind some of the city's best-known paintings; Sophisticated snacking; where to find gourmet tapas and wine-lists to match; Winding down; the yoga centers, spas and Turkish baths springing up all over town; Up, up and away; climbing, skiing and hang-gliding are all within reach of the city.

I love the Time Out series. I think it is definitely the best of the bigger name travel guides, particularly with respect to things like restaurants, bars, and cafes. They don't covers as many cities, but when they do, like here, I try to get them. Unfortunately this one proved disappointing. The descriptions of sights were as expected, but the problem was with the descriptions of the restaurants, bars, and cafes. Several places that the book talked up as amazing ended up being surprisingly below average. For other places the hours weren't even close to correct, despite the fact that this book was used in October 2013 and was only published in July 2013, 3 months earlier. Ultimately my traveling companion and I decided to rely on another guide's recommendations that we were able to get through an app. We figured they'd be super touristy, but they ended up being stronger recommendations. I've been fortunate to travel a lot, and I keep my travel guides, so there are nearly two dozen travel guides sitting on my bookshelf right now. I got rid of this one, the first time I've done that.
