David Kent Ballast, FAIA, NCIDQ® Certificate No. 9425, owns Architectural Research Consulting, a firm offering information and management service to architects, interior designers, and the construction industry. Mr. Ballast taught interior construction and other courses at Arapahoe Community College for over 20 years. A licensed architect in the state of Colorado, Mr. Ballast has written many books on design topics.

The questions in this book in no way matched what was on the actual test. I studied the Ballast Interior Design Reference Manual cover to cover, and then I took these practice exams and was doing great. I felt very prepared going into the exam. However the material on the IDFX only covered probably less than 10% of what I had been studying for months. Overall, this did not prepare me for the types of questions that would be on the test. Disappointed in my purchase.

If I could give this zero stars, I would. Way over priced for what it is. While looking back, I would agree the book was described, I expected so much more for nearing $73!! If you break down the cost per page for this book, it is 81 cents per page!! Overpriced. Stick to the flash cards.

Questions are confusing, answers are crazy. I'm not convinced that this helped with anything.

Order these guides!! You will not be sorry!!

Book arrived in perfect condition! The only problem is I expected the book to have much more information in it for the price I was paying for it. I would definitely buy from this seller again, but I would probably not buy this to help study again this book is very helpful.briefly looked through the book and can tell that this will help with my exam in the future.

Super helpful guide! Covered a LOT of questions.
