Swing Trading Using The 4-Hour Chart 1: Part 1: Introduction To Swing Trading

Synopsis

Swing Trading using the 4-hour chart

Part 1: Introduction to Swing Trading

Swing trading is too fast for investors and too slow for day traders. It takes place on a timeframe in which you will find very few professionals traders. Swing traders usually use 4-hour charts. This period falls exactly between that of the investor and the day trader. As a swing trader, you are prone to sit on the fence, and that's good, because here you are almost alone. This eBook describes the swing trading method of the HeikinAshi Trader. It is ideal for individual investors who do not want to sit all day in front of the computer screen.

Customer Reviews

I really enjoyed the author's previous 4-part series 'Scalping is Fun'. He writes very clearly and systematically so that after reading the material, you really have something to try... whether it really works or not is another issue. Now with Swing Trading using the 4-Hour Chart he has turned his attention to a longer timescale that is possible to trade without being glued to the computer screen all day. Part 1 is ok, but as with 'Scalping is Fun' I believe the real meat is in the later parts. Since I have seen that Parts 2 and 3 for Swing Trading have been published in German but not in English so far, I am hoping Heikin Ashin Trader hurries up and gets those parts translated and available on Kindle!

The book just give general information and the charts used are not very well explained! I have read it on Kindle and I feel there is something missing. It can not be all of that !

Very pleased with the book.Mike

This is actually a very good book. I have been swing trading for some time now and only recently started trading with ETF's as opposed to individual stocks and what a difference! This book essentially describes in detail exactly what I have been learning through trial and error. For example when trading index ETF's, you only need to monitor the general direction of the index before taking a position. The daily charts are too course to get a good bead on the direction and the 15 minute are way to granular. The 4 hour charts are perfect. Check it out. It's worth a read!

You can find almost all information on the Internet. Complete waste of money and time in my opinion. Skip this.

Great info on keeping things disciplined and simple. Can't wait to read the next OK be in the series!
Great!
